From The Editor:

Issue 54 December/January 2017

Welcome to issue 54 of the Best of Irish Kitchens magazine. Featuring over 70 pages of some of the best kitchen designs from real homes across Ireland our aim is to hopefully inspire you with your own kitchen project. These stunning kitchens may vary in size and style but all are examples of expert craftsmanship, design flair and have been created with a sense of purpose in mind.

As ever we have a host of practical features to help you compile your shopping - or wish list - and in this issue we look at some kitchen essentials; hobs, ovens and range cookers, worktops, and extractors. We also have small domestic appliances that you'd be lost without, lighting ideas to show off your scheme and storage solutions to keep your room tidy.

I hope you enjoy the read,

The home: A detached residence in Kilcogan Co. Galway
Who lives here? Breda and Padraig.

Breda and Padraig have lived in their house for almost twenty years. With their children now all grown up and moved out the way they use the home has changed and they felt they weren't making the best use of the space.

A renovation allowed them to knock through into the conservatory and open up the kitchen creating much more light and space in what was previously a dark room.

Breda said: "The main problem with the last kitchen was that it was quite closed in and didn't allow for a flow of natural light. It's now much more central in the scheme, leading off to the dining and living rooms."

When it came to creating the perfect kitchen scheme for their new space the couple wanted someone that could marry together the more traditional aspects of the home with the newly renovated areas. While they wanted something fresh and current it was important it didn't look out of place or at odds with the existing rooms.

On recommendation they visited the Creative Wood showroom and loved the quality of work they saw there. As the room has two windows and three doors there was a limited run of wall space in which to accommodate all the units but after the initial consultation with designer Michéal the couple were impressed with his ideas and vision for the room.

"What Michéal proposed, ensured there was layout and looked lovely,” commented Breda.

With a mix of high and low cabinetry and tall units the room is interesting and full of design flair. The last kitchen had featured a lot of cherry wood but this time around, in the interest of making full use of the extra light in the room, the couple chose a pale handpainted look with silestone worktops to keep the kitchen as bright as possible. Glass cutouts in the upper cabinetry add detail and also helps with the flow of light in the room.

The bespoke island with its curved breakfast bar and seating area is the main cook station in the room with both the ovens and induction hob located here.

Breda explained: “I wanted to be able to face out and see into the other rooms when I was cooking, if it had been anywhere else in the room I would have been staring at the wall.”

Michéal factored plenty of storage into the scheme and a bespoke double door press holds the kitchen’s small appliances.

Breda said: “We’re delighted with the new kitchen. The whole Creative Wood team were fantastic to work with. Michéal, Danny, Vinny and Donal really went out of their way to ensure everything went smoothly. There wasn’t a problem that they couldn’t find a

"The clients were keen to keep the newly renovated room as light as possible. Wall space was a slight issue but by housing the ovens in the island we freed up extra space for storage and have also kept the room social with Breda facing out into the kitchen. They loved the idea of the bespoke island with curved oak breakfast bar and this is a real key focal point in the room. The bulkhead with the ceiling extractor and the glass cutouts on the higher cabinetry draw the eye upwards, thus making the room appear larger."

Cathriona and Paul love their home but after 15 years of living there they were beginning to feel slightly restricted in terms of space. Cathriona said: “Our oldest two children are 12 and 10 and they’re at the stage where they love having friends round. The house was starting to feel too small for the five of us but rather than move we knew the potential was there to make better use of the space.”

As Paul has his own building business, PG Construction, the couple were well informed when it came to doing the work and adding an extension to the back of the house made room for an open plan kitchen, living room and downstairs WC.

“We just had one separate sitting room before so the new room has really revolutionised the way we use the house,” explained Cathriona. “It means the kids have a room they can go into to watch TV when they’ve friends over and also we can spend more time together as a family and I’m not shut away in a separate room to make the dinner.”

Cathriona had spent some time collating starting point for the scheme.

She said: "I love Irish Kitchens magazine and had gone through issues ripping out things I liked from different kitchens - pantries, islands, worktops, etc - and putting a mood board together.

"Paul has worked with Ferndale Kitchens before and then when I met with John and Orla I was really impressed with their personal approach to the work."

The couple wanted an elegant, simple scheme that would sit neatly in the room. An island was a must but it had to be functional. Cathriona also wanted a comfortable seating area at the times as well as entertaining.

"I didn't want to have to separate dining table in the room taking up space to then only be used occasionally so loved what John came up with for the island. The bench seating is great as we can fit so many round it. I'm also going to buy a few foldable chairs that I can hang in the utility room when not in use."

Everything in the room has been chosen with functionality in mind. Storage space under the bench seat in the island holds the youngest member of the family's toys and even the dishwasher has a sensor control to open - eliminating the need for a handle sticking out kitchen cabinetry to sit neatly in the room.

Cathriona explained: "I do some work from home so the desk is handy. It's also great if the kids are using the computer or doing homework and I love that it doesn't look at all out of place.

"When I was growing up the kitchen was the main room in the house, that's what I wanted from this room. Everything in the kitchen works so well and even if I'm working at the sink or preparing food I can still keep up a conversation with whoever is sat at the island.

"Ferndale were happy to draw up every single one of our ideas so we could see exactly

"The client came to us with a good idea of what they wanted from the kitchen in their new open plan room. It had to be highly functional but with a timeless style that would continue to look good for many years to come. The island and table are a real focal point in the room and work brilliantly well as both a work station and entertainment hub. The double door pantry has been designed to ensure everything has its place and is easy to find while the bespoke overmantel gives a sense of balance to the scheme."

The home: An extended family home in Wicklow
 Who lives here? Siobhan, Peter and their two children

When Siobhan and Peter bought their home they did so with the intention that at some point in the future they would renovate the downstairs' rooms. When the time was right they found a builder and architect who could transform their traditional style property into something much more modern.

Part of the plan was to move the kitchen into

Steering away from anything overly ornate the under counter cabinetry helps to give the room a relaxed appeal while the open

Siobhan said: "This has been in the planning for several years so we were excited when the wheels were finally put in motion. We'd had plenty of time to think about what we wanted which made it easier when it came to choosing the interior scheme."

For the new kitchen the couple wanted something simple and bright that would make the most of the natural light and views out to the garden. After visiting several kitchen design showrooms they discovered Noel Dempsey Kitchens & Interiors where they met with designer David.

"Straightaway we just clicked with David," explained Siobhan. "He was extremely helpful and asked lots of questions about how we wanted to use the kitchen and really took his time to go over the plans we had."

"The design he came up with was well suited for us and within budget. He was so adaptable to our needs, took all our ideas on board but also made lots of suggestions which we found really helpful."

Steering away from anything overly ornate the under counter cabinetry helps to give the room a relaxed appeal while the open shelving adds colour and interest.

The tall double door larder press means lack of storage space will never be an issue for the family and its location - next to the American style fridge freezer - means unpacking the grocery shop is an easy task.

A large functional island was top of the couple's wish list and with its socket points, fitted oven and deep presses David delivered on a design that is both practical and aesthetically pleasing.

Siobhan commented: "David built functionality into the design. We had a small island in the old kitchen but rarely used it, I love that now it's much more practical and has a purpose."

The large island has also given the room the much needed counter space that the previous kitchen was lacking.

"Having the extra surface space makes life so much easier. We probably didn't realise how restrictive the last kitchen was until we had this done but now we could never go back."

A neutral colour scheme works well within the room with the stainless steel of the appliances complementing the choice of polished silver handles on the cabinetry.

"The new open plan space just feels like a breath of fresh air," said Siobhan. "David and the team were so easy to work with and the whole of

"As always we used the initial consultation to get to know the clients and help them figure out what they wanted. Siobhan wanted a kitchen that was unique to them. They wanted something that looked great and was very practical but that wasn't too formal. They wanted good storage but didn't want to fill the room with cabinetry so a double door larder press was the ideal solution."

The home: A new build in Draperstown
Who lives here? Carlus and Maria

Maria and Carlus wanted a modern kitchen with a classical style that would become the centre piece to their fabulous new home. Working with Darren Morgan from Designer Kitchen they were drawn to the idea of mixing light and dark tones to create a heavily contrasted aesthetic full of metallic and reflective finishes. Choosing a classically styled, in-frame kitchen with art deco and contemporary influences this unique scheme is full of visual hooks with even the inside of the larder unit custom lined in a specially commissioned material.

Carlus said: "We were amazed that upon meeting Darren he was able to really get what there was no re-draft needed."

The kitchen island is completely bespoke, a unique installation that has been designed to maximise the functional potential of the space whilst delivering a powerful visual aesthetic. Positioning it diagonally across the room created enough space to deliver a design that was not restricted by the architecture and aided movement throughout the room.

The drama of the island is further enhanced through the complex array of handcrafted cabinetry that effortlessly flows back into the room drawing the eye deeper into the space.

The couple were so impressed with Darren's craftsmanship they also had him design and install furniture in other areas of the house

THE DESIGNER

Darren Morgan

“To me this was not just a kitchen it was a functional art installation, a signature of the client’s personal style and a fitting centre piece to their fantastic new home. Each individual island section was uniquely designed to reflect the opulence required for this exclusive residence. The subtle mixture of door profiles and luxury finishes allowed the island to straddle the boundaries between traditional and contemporary design whilst the acute arrangement of angles and curves melt together to create a luxurious mix of materials, layers and finishes, all of which aid the functionality of the kitchen providing the user with multiple preparation zones and an area for casual seating.”

real sense of flow and continuity.

Carlus explained: “The service offered by Darren and his team is pretty comprehensive, they also designed our table and chairs, bar stools and even our window treatments throughout the house. Having one person you could trust took the pressure off us which was fantastic.”

The bespoke bulkhead ceiling complete with plaster cornice and colour changing LED lighting allows for adjustable lighting that can cater for both practicality and ambience.

“The detail in the kitchen is incredible and a real testament to the exceptional lengths Darren and his team go to,” commented Carlus. “We are absolutely delighted with the results.”

The home: A detached family home in Knocklyon

The design of Stepside Lane, a small luxury development, focused on the creation of an open plan family living, kitchen and dining area. The building was well laid out with lots of natural light so kitchen designer Lisa Maher wanted to keep things bright and airy while still incorporating some colour into the room. The choice of Farrow & Ball Hague Blue on the island contrasts beautifully against the subtle Wimborne White on the rest of the kitchen and also complements the overall palette of the rest of the home.

Lisa said: "The kitchen and living rooms of this family home were a key focus, as they were to be the most used spaces within the house. As such, these areas needed to be both functional and comfortable. The overall aesthetic goal was to create a feeling of calm sophistication in a space."

must and so Lisa recommended the Neff range.

"The clients chose the combi and steam ovens plus the much underrated warming drawers," explained Lisa. "These are fantastic as they double up as a slow cooker and are fantastic for food drying - a method of food preservation in which food is dried (dehydrated or desiccated)."

Ample storage in the kitchen ensures the worktop and island are kept clear and by focusing the kitchen scheme along the wall, Lisa has allowed the room's idyllic views out to the Dublin mountains to take centre stage.

Everything in the room has been considered from both a practical and aesthetic view point. The large island with its solid oak seating area acts as both a work station and a social hub and is the main focal point in the room.

"Circulation and ease of use was a key design consideration," said Lisa. "The location of the island and its proximity to the hob and ovens welcomes anyone to join in with the food preparation and means there is no need for conversation to end when the cooking begins."

Simple but striking this hard working kitchen is filled with possibilities. "While it had to look good it also had to be a room for living in. I wanted to create a comfortable space where the clients could eat, cook, relax and entertain."

Lisa was also responsible for a considerable amount of bespoke joinery work in the home, including a walk-in-wardrobe, reception room, boot room and a media storage system for the living room. The result is an elegantly crafted

The home: A new build bungalow in Strabane
Who lives here? Heather, Jason and their three year old son

Heather and Jason's main consideration when it came building their home from scratch was that it felt warm and welcoming and would be a space where they could not only cook and eat but a room in which they could enjoy spending time together.

"We wanted it to be a family space that can evolve as our son grows up," explained Heather.

They wanted the work to be done locally and as they knew of Pattersons and their work it was the first place they visited when looking for a kitchen designer.

"Pattersons came highly recommended by a few friends and we found Stephen very accommodating and easy to work with.

"We didn't want anything too contemporary and wanted to keep it very airy and bright. I love the handpainted look and we've always wanted an island so that was top of the wish list."

Stephen's scheme was for a mix of high and low units and ceiling to floor cabinetry, with a large island sitting central in the room.

Heather said: "Stephen's design made the best of the space without crowding the room. I loved the idea he came up with for the raised “Storage was a concern when it came to the kitchen but the tall units are so versatile in what they can hold, we have a pull out bin to the right hand side of the sink and the drawers either end of the cooker have a peg system for holding plates. It’s all so functional and everything has its proper place.”

Stephen also did the couple’s utility room in a similar style to the kitchen and this is the perfect place for any less frequently used items.

Heather had a good idea of what she wanted when it came to colour scheme. “I wanted the room to look very clean and bright but loved the idea of a stronger colour on the island. When we spotted the navy shade we knew it would work really well in the room and have actually ended up painting the ceiling in the sun room the same colour.”

The mirrored splashback behind the hob is a great addition to the room as it throws light back into the scheme, makes the space seem larger and also means Heather can keep an eye on what’s going on even when she’s cooking.

“When I picked it I then worried that maybe I was mad and it was going to be a nightmare to keep clean but in fact quite the opposite is true.”

Stephen also built a cabinet for the bathroom and walk-in wardrobe for the master bedroom which means the whole house has the same bespoke furnished look.

“I love that everything has been designed to

“The client wanted a family orientated kitchen that they could continue to enjoy for years to come. They loved the handpainted look and wanted good storage with a large island that could be used as a work area. Visual hooks like the mirrored splashback, glass panelling and open shelving work very well to break up the scheme and keep it interesting.”

Isabella and Declan wanted a kitchen that would be functional and beautiful. It was equally important that this newly extended space blend perfectly with the existing design and overall flow of the house. Another major requirement was that the space feel bright and airy and able to withstand the demands of busy life. Based on recommendation they chose Steven at Enigma Design to carry out the work and trusted him to create a bespoke design that would make the most of the room's dimensions.

The large extension and extensive renovation has transformed the downstairs of this property and with a great structure in place Steven designed an L-shaped scheme to maximise on floor space but to also allow flow and movement throughout the kitchen and living space. The chunky island provides additional, uninterrupted counter space and is great for meal preparation.

Veering away from the current trend for a handpainted look the couple had their hearts set on a wooden kitchen that was more contemporary than traditional.

Steven advised on the choice of Iroko timber as its oil finish means any future scratches or marks can be sanded off and the units re-oiled. Both Isabella and Declan loved its rich warmth and beautiful natural colour.

"I had spotted one of Enigma Design's Iroko kitchens in a magazine, and knew this was the one for me. I love the authentic and unpretentious look and feel of the solid, natural built an Iroko kitchen for so I could ask how it worked for them- and from there I think the decision was easy.”

White quartz stone worktops perfectly offset the darker tones of the wood and the stainless steel of the ovens and mirrored splashback reflect light back into the room.

The painted bulkhead over the tall units with LED lighting keeps the hob area illuminated and is perfect for ambient lighting on an evening.

Integrated finger groove handles on the cabinetry keep the clean lines of the room and are proof of Steven’s craftsmanship and attention to detail.

This was a large area to fill so it was crucial the design took the space into consideration to avoid the individual elements getting lost.

With its perfectly zoned living, kitchen and dining areas the room is the ideal entertaining space. Commenting on the scheme Steven said: “The clients wanted something a little out of the ordinary. It had to be hard working, contemporary and with lots of worktop space.

“This is a busy family home but they also love to entertain and have friends and family round

I asked questions about how they wanted to use the room and from there set about designing a kitchen space tailor made to their needs. ## KITCHENS

The house: A split-level detached family home in Rostrevor
Who lives here? Isla and Sean

Although a cliché, for Isla the kitchen really is the heart of her home. As a keen cook and baker she spends more time there than in any other part of the house and for this reason any kitchen renovation had to be carried out to the highest of standards.

Isla said:

“I’ve always had an interest in cooking but as I’ve gotten older I’ve had more time to devote to it and now prepare every meal from scratch and raw ingredients so I really wanted the best from a new kitchen.

“Our old kitchen was an 80’s maple style and it was time for a change. Given that I spend so much time in the kitchen it made sense that we knocked through into the family room and turned it into an open plan living area.”

In the initial stages of the extensive renovation the couple enlisted the services work they wanted done in the kitchen Adrian recommended Mark from Robinson Interiors. Isla explains:

“When we told Adrian what we wanted from the kitchen he advised that his first choice would be Robinsons. We met with Mark and loved the designs he came back with and were confident they would deliver on time.”

Isla and Sean’s is a busy house with a constant influx of visitors including children and grandchildren and as Isla is often found in the kitchen she wanted the room to be accommodating of guests.

“I could happily stand and bake for hours on end,” comments Isla. “So I wanted the kitchen laid out in such a way that visitors could sit at the island with a cup of coffee and I could carry on with what I was doing without being rude and having my back to them.”

For this reason Mark incorporated a Wolf cooktop, barbeque grill and two ring induction hob onto the island. The kitchen also features two huge Wolf ovens because, as Isla comments, ‘quite often we have so many guests at Christmas we need four turkeys!’

To a large extent Isla gave Adrian and Mark free reign with the design process, trusting their choices and ideas.

“We all had a discussion at the start about what Sean and myself wanted from the kitchen and it was clear instantly that Adrian and Mark understood our ideas and we were confident we could trust them. There wasn’t one thing they suggested that we didn’t love,” Isla said.

The two designers decided on a muted palette for the room, handpainted in shades of milk and grey as they wanted to get away from the typical cream interior.

Isla explains:

“One of the things that I loved about Mark’s design proposal was the five stage hand painting process that Robinsons offer. I loved the fact that if he and Adrian chose a shade I wasn’t sure about I had the option of changing it or toning it down.”

In terms of design and appliances Isla now has a kitchen fit for a professional and is thrilled with the open plan area. She said:

“I’m so delighted with how everything has turned out and how smoothly the project went. We have a separate dining room we keep for special occasions and to be honest I can see that room now becoming redundant as we love it in here so much.

“I’ve dreamt of a kitchen suitable for entertaining where guests could sit and chat

THE DESIGNER

Mark Robinson

"I first met with Isla and Sean through their interior designer Adrian who explained what they wanted from this extensive refurbishment. For Isla, who bakes, cooks and prepares everything from scratch, there had to be no compromise on quality so we designed this kitchen in much the same way as a professional, working kitchen, while still keeping that all important social element to the room. Isla and Sean don't like stools so I incorporated a circular breakfast table, at chair height, onto the island and the island itself is solid oak with a river-wash finish and as Isla wanted no joins in it we used Corian for its flexibility. In terms of colour both Adrian and I agreed that we felt this room should have a real wow factor so steered away from the creams and whites in favour of the mink tones. The finished result is a very sophisticated design that functions to the highest standard."

With its panoramic windows the room is full of natural light, giving the high-gloss handleless cabinetry maximum impact.

The large island incorporates a breakfast bar for a relaxed eating point while the oak kitchen table runs parallel to give another seating option for when guests are round.

The staircase acts as a divider between the kitchen and living areas while keeping the look very open and social.

Henry said:

“The room is brilliant for when we have people round. It really lends itself to entertaining and will be fantastic in the summer.”

A concealed door leads through to the utility room and is perfect for holding any dirty dishes after a dinner party and concealing any mess from mealtime preparation.

Situated in a rural setting with lakeside views the couple wanted to maintain a fuss-free simplicity to the house, Henry said:

“We didn’t want to detract from the amazing views around the property so the whole house has been designed to really make the most of what’s going on outside.

“We looked at a number of kitchen companies but Interior 360 matched our needs best and offered the best solution for the concealed door system.”

The white colour scheme is perfect for achieving a contemporary look with the darker seating providing a practical contrast.

“We wanted something very clean looking so white was the obvious choice and we loved the high gloss doors as soon as we saw them,” said Henry. “The kitchen is very easy to maintain and still looks as new and fresh as the day it was put in.” 📌

The home: A new build in Galway
Who lives here? Karen, Simon and their two young children

When it came to the kitchen design Karen and Simon wanted a scheme that would maximise on the natural light and create a unity between the garden and kitchen. Going through magazines and the internet helped Karen form some idea of what she would like in terms of style but finding a company that could make full use of the available space was a more difficult matter.

"I had gone to a number of kitchen companies and they all more or less came up with the same design," she explained. "It wasn't until I was talking about it to a friend that she recommended Kreations Kitchens.

"We arranged a consultation with Peter the work really stood out but we also loved the variety of designs. Peter was so enthusiastic about the project and making sure everything was right for us, it completely erased any worries we may have had.”

Choosing a handpainted, classic style design with a large central island the family now have their dream kitchen. Deep presses, island storage, and a double door pantry mean there is ample storage space in the kitchen with all areas being used to their full potential.

“We inherited our last kitchen with our previous house and as it was relatively new couldn’t justify changing it. It wasn’t awful but wasn’t really to our taste. It was much darker and the layout wasn’t the best.

“When it came to planning this kitchen we told Peter exactly what we wanted and he made it happen. Good counter space to work at was a main requirement and Peter suggested putting the sink in the island adjacent to the hob. I wasn’t sure at first but it’s turned out to be a blessing - it’s so easy to tidy as I go.

is surrounded by well kept gardens and the couple wanted their open plan room to make the most of the vistas.

“The kids love playing outside and we’re so lucky to have all this space, I wanted there to be a real connection between the house and the garden so plenty of windows were a must and I love the window seat that Peter incorporated into the kitchen scheme.

“Not only does the room feel very bright and open but it means it’s the perfect entertaining space in the better weather and also it’s easy to keep an eye on the children.”

Peter also designed the media unit in the living area, painting it in the same soft grey as the kitchen island, this gives the whole open plan area a sense of continuity and flow.

Karen said: “We had a pretty good idea of what we wanted from the colour scheme. I wanted to keep it neutral and timeless and it had to work with the light in the room.

“I love how clean looking it is and it all feels very relaxing. We really couldn’t recommend Kreation highly enough. Peter was on hand at "The clients wanted an open plan space that would really make the most of the room's layout and light. They had a few ideas of their own but were also open to suggestions. The room had to look good but also function well as a family living space. Good storage was critical, as was a clear run of counter space and a large island. They didn't want anything too contemporary but at the same time they're a young family so it still had to look very current. The choice of bi-colour scheme is great for adding interest into the room while creating an overall look that is timeless."

The home: A new build in Co. Mayo
Who lives here? Michelle,
Jonathan and their young son

When Michelle and Jonathan were building their new home the kitchen took top priority. Explaining its importance Michelle said that, as is so often the case, for them the kitchen is the hub of their home and where they spend most of their time together as a family.

"The kitchen really was the main room we had to consider in terms of layout and design. It's an open plan area and such a vital component of the house."

Heavily involved in all aspects of the planning the couple took their time in searching for the project that matched what they were looking for in terms of quality and style.

“We really liked what we saw,” commented Michelle. “The craftsmanship stood out and then when we contacted Niall he got back to us straight away which was a real benefit.”

The couple wanted a classic contemporary style kitchen with an in-frame, furnished look. After the initial consultation Niall came out to look at the space and from there designed a scheme that would make the most of the available floor space while keeping the spacious, open feel to the room.

Michelle said: “We told Niall we wanted an easy space to live in, it had to feel friendly and warm. Storage was an important factor but we didn’t want the room to look cluttered and wanted a simple effect to the scheme.”

Niall’s attention to detail impressed the couple and he considered everything from both an aesthetic and practical point of view.

“I’m just over five feet tall so Niall took this into consideration when planning the worktops, presses and appliances. I didn’t want cooking to be a hassle but the hob, sink and ovens are in close proximity to each other and even the storage has been planned so everything is on hand.”

When it came to the colour scheme Michelle wanted something that was interesting but easy to live with.

“I wanted complementary shades rather than everything matching,” said Michelle. “Plus the room has so much natural light we weren’t restricted when it came to choice.”

Quartz worktops work beautifully with the handpainted cabinetry and the rich tone of the wooden flooring adds warmth and ambience to the room. While the work was going on in the kitchen the couple were also busy trying to finish the rest of the house. Michelle had spotted and fallen in love with a vanity unit that would be perfect for the downstairs bathroom but was having trouble sourcing it.

“I had seen from Niall’s portfolio of work that he also built furniture so I showed him the picture and asked if he thought he could recreate it. He’s so talented and creative that what he came back with was probably even better than what I had shown him. We were so impressed we then asked him to do another storage unit for the main bathroom. He also made a mirror to fit above the double length unit, the beauty of bespoke furniture is that it’s perfectly designed to fit the dimensions of the room.

“Niall went above and beyond with his work. We were conscious of our budget but

THE DESIGNER

Niall Russell

"The client wanted a scheme that would really fit the space and sit well within the dimensions of the room. I used the initial consultation to figure out what they did and didn't like and how they wanted to use the room. After that it was a matter of working through their wish list and ensuring we met all expectations. Storage was a crucial factor but they didn't want to overcrowd the room so a double door pantry was a great inclusion."

Dynamic Designs

Ligne Roset is synonymous with modern luxury and invites consumers to revel in a contemporary, design-forward lifestyle.

Known for its artful collaborations with both established and up-and-coming talents in contemporary design, Ligne Roset offers consumers an entire lifestyle in which to live both boldly and beautifully via its furniture collections and complementary decorative accessories, lighting, rugs, textiles and occasional items.

An additional distinguishing point of difference that sets the company apart from other manufacturers is its tradition of investing in dynamic designer collaborations.

Creativity is a key value of the brand: if a new product demands new materials or production methods, the company will simply acquire them. Seats, pieces of furniture, lighting, textiles, rugs or bed linens: Available at Arena Kitchen Architecture, sale starts January 1st 2017.

New MD for Bodel Distributors

John Leckey is the new Managing Director and owner of Bodel Distributors. For more than 40 years the company has been a leading distributor of premium kitchen equipment across the North and South of Ireland and John himself has been with the business for 23 years.

With 11 different brands available—including sinks and taps by Franke, Perrin and Rowe and Carron Phoenix as well as appliances from Smeg, CDA, Bosch, Best and Liebherr. Bodel also distribute worktops, cooker hoods, ducting and a range of lighting products as well.

With Guy Fetherston retiring MD taking a role as Chairman, John says it is very much business as usual for the company.

“It’s an exciting time for me and the company. We’ve got a fantastic team at Bodel and I’m delighted Guy is staying on in the transition process. We’re very proud of the brands we have in our portfolio and the strong relationships we have with our

Brand Focus:

Rational

For more than 50 years Rational has been combining excellent design, innovative technology and outstanding functionality.

Founded in 1963, the company offers high-quality kitchens catering for all furnishing tastes and lifestyles – from purist and design-oriented, through timeless modern to stylishly elegant. The highly sought after German brand has been designed to appeal to individual tastes and lifestyles; from the design orientated purists to the stylishly elegant and timeless contemporary.

RATIONAL – DESIGNER KITCHENS STEEPED IN TRADITION

Personal creativity and customised solutions are at the heart of the brand's philosophy, with each model boosting a distinct, typically Rational character.

Modern production technologies are coupled with traditional craftsmanship for the highest standards in technology, quality and functionality. Earlier this year Rational received the internationally recognised for its tio-zen kitchen.

Available in more than 50 countries worldwide the Rational brand is just as comfortable in the typical home as it is in exceptional projects such as parts of the luxury villas of The Palm Jumeirah in Dubai and the apartments of The Pearl in Qatar.

GO WITH THE FLO

In 2015, world renowned designer Karim Rashid and the kitchen engineers at Rational began a cooperation to jointly bring out a new kitchen design concept, combining the best of two worlds: Karim Rashid's strong design and creativity plus Rational's keen eye on practical yet aesthetically pleasing kitchen solutions.

The highly anticipated result of this cooperation is called - a simple, minimalistic, but still Rational kitchen design. Inspired by round, natural shapes and strong, monolithic elements the concept features a continuous radius detail that also functions as a handle zinc yellow for example.

Materials for the door fronts can either be DuPont Corian or Rational's soft lacquered range in a multitude of available colours. Worktops and accessories are also done in DuPont Corian, as no other material has the ability for seamless connections and the type of round, elegantly formed shapes that are essential to this outstanding design.

THE NEW SUPERSTARS: WHITE & COPPER

Timeless and elegant the colour white evokes positive associations, such as lightness, purity and clarity. This all-round talent offering virtually endless combination possibilities proves that white is anything but bland and boring. What's more, white lights up everything around it, making even small kitchen spaces appear more open, spacious and imposing.

Boasting lustre and versatility, copper - the new superstar in the furnishing firmament - also scores highly. This popular precious metal is quite literally making a gleaming comeback and impresses on account of the diverse range of both its appearance and application options: from high gloss to matt, brushed or smooth, in attractive shimmering nuances, such as rosé gold, vivid orange and red gold through to warm brown hues. And over time copper becomes even more unique and beautiful, thanks to its naturally forming patina.

Used discreetly and with careful consideration copper and white form a formidable team. And when combined with other materials, such as high-grade woods or natural stone and glass, comfortable kitchen diners can be created in an array of different styles: modern-urban, timelessly elegant, classic, nostalgic, vintage look storage elements with a clean and seamless look, seemingly continuing from counter to floor, creating a pure geometry to keep the kitchen in order and precise.

This new kitchen concept is one of its kind and combines true innovation with ingenious creativity. Whilst the colour scheme - from the outside - is a shimmering white, the interior can be done in strong

Balanced Palette

The abundance of natural light in the room gave the clients greater freedom when it came to the colour scheme. They were both drawn to the idea of a muted grey palette and went for a soft stone shade on the cabinetry offset with a much deeper charcoal tone on the island and breakfast bar. This darker shade resonates through the room with the pendant lighting, barstools, clock and handpicked granite countertops giving the scheme a uniformity and balance.

Contemporary Modern

*There are several key elements to the contemporary modern kitchen, usually they have a flat panel or slab door which overlays the frame. The aim is a clean streamline design avoiding clutter and to emphasise the natural beauty of materials such as stainless steel, wood grain, glass and concrete, very often all the elements are consistent in style. The 3D9 rise and fall extractor from CDA extracts steam and odours at hob level and slides neatly away beneath the worktop when not in use - ideal for installation on a central island where an overhead extractor can be intrusive.

At the touch of the power control the Baumatic downdraft extractor rises from the work surface to a height of 36cm – just above the maximum height level of a larger pan. As it rises, two angled LED lights illuminate to enhance cooking visibility and when cooking has finished the extractor retracts in to the work surface again.

Fried Chicken Wings with Blue Cheese Dip

- ½ tbsp dijon mustard
- 2 tbsp finely chopped chives
- 1 tbsp white wine vinegar
- 150g grated blue cheese (stilton)
- Pinch of salt
- Juice from ½ Lemon

Method

FOR THE CHICKEN WINGS

1. Place all the ingredients for the marinade in a mixing bowl and mix well. Add the chicken wings and marinade overnight.

FOR THE BLUE CHEESE DRESSING

1. For the dressing whisk the mayo and crème fraiche until smooth then mix in the rest of the ingredients. Set aside until ready to serve.

FOR THE CHICKEN WINGS

2. Preheat deep fat fryer to 160c
3. In a mixing bowl add all the chicken flour ingredients, mix well. Remove the chicken wings from the marinade, shake off the excess marinade and coat evenly in the flour and fry in batches for 4-6mins. When the wings start floating it means they are cooked. Temperature check them with a probe and if over 70c they are cooked through. Remove from the heat and season with salt and serve straight away with the blue cheese dressing.

Description

I fell in love with blue cheese dressing when I was on holiday in the US last year. I ate the American dream and it was one of their most popular dressings in restaurants. It originates from the States and goes so well with fried chicken, so this is my unique take on it.

Ingredients

Serves 4

- 20 chicken wings

FOR CHICKEN MARINADE

- 284ml buttermilk
- 2 bay leaves
- 1 tbsp oregano
- 1 tsp garlic powder
- 1 tbsp smoked paprika
- 1 tbsp ground coriander
- 1 tbsp ground cumin
- 1 tsp cayenne pepper
- 4 sprigs of thyme

FOR THE CHICKEN FLOUR

- 250g plain flour
- 2 tbsp smoked paprika
- 1 tbsp ground cumin
- 1 tsp cayenne pepper
- 1 tbsp ground coriander
- 1 tsp garlic powder
- 1 tsp cracked black pepper

FOR THE BLUE CHEESE DIP

Chargrilled Chicken Salad with Tarragon Dressing and Croutons

Method

1. Preheat Oven to 180c

FOR THE DRESSING

1. Place all of the ingredients into a mixing bowl and whisk until incorporated and smooth. Set to one side until ready to plate.

FOR THE CROUTONS

1. Cut the baguette into 2 cm cubes and place onto a lined baking sheet. Drizzle with a little olive oil and scatter over the leaves from one sprig of rosemary. Season with sea salt and cook for 6-8 mins until golden and crunchy. Once cooked, remove from the oven and set aside to cool down. Set aside until ready to serve.

FOR THE CHICKEN

2. Heat a large griddle pan until smoking. Season the chicken with salt and pepper and drizzle over the oil. Using tongs place the chicken onto the griddle pan. Sear for 2-3mins on each side until you get char marks then place into the oven for 7-10mins until cooked all the way through. Remove from the oven then slice thinly and set aside until ready to plate.

TO PLATE

1. Place the salad in a mixing bowl and dress with ¾'s of the dressing. Toss well. Arrange the salad between four plates. Divide the chicken between the plates and drizzle over the remaining dressing. Finish with the croutons and serve straight away.

Description

Chicken and tarragon are a marriage made in heaven and the result is a very light, refreshing and vibrant tasting dish. You could use this dressing on other salads too and it also works very well accompanied with fish or goats cheese.

Ingredients

Serves 4

FOR THE DRESSING

- 150g mayonnaise
- 100ml natural yoghurt
- 100g crème fraiche
- 1 tbsp honey
- ½ tbsp dijon mustard
- 1 tsp white wine vinegar
- 1 tbsp dried tarragon
- 3 tbsp fresh finely chopped tarragon
- Juice of 1 lemon
- Pinch of salt

FOR THE CHICKEN

- 4 chicken breasts – skin removed
- 2 tbsp olive oil
- Salt

FOR THE CROUTONS

- 1 small baguette
- 1 sprig of rosemary
- Olive oil
- Sea salt

Tartare Sauce and Beer Battered Fish

Description

Ever since I was a kid I loved fish and chips, it reminds me of Friday nights and staying with my nan and granddad who always ate fish on a Friday. To go with it, my nan always served the fish with a generous dollop of tartare sauce. Tartare sauce from a jar is ok, but there is nothing

Ingredients

Serves 4

FOR THE TARTARE SAUCE

- 400g mayonnaise
- 3 tbsp finely sliced chives
- 3 tbsp finely chopped tarragon
- 4 tbsp finely chopped parsley
- 2 tbsp finely chopped dill
- 2 banana shallots (soaked

- 3 tbsp capers finely chopped
- juice of 1 Lemon
- 1 tsp dijon mustard
- 3 tbsp white wine vinegar

FOR THE BEER BATTER

- 250g plain flour
  - 300ml ale
  - pinch of salt
- Plus
- 4 x 200g fillets of cod
  - 75g plain flour (to coat fish)

Method

1. Preheat deep fat fryer to 190c.
2. For the tartare sauce, mix all the ingredients in a mixing bowl then season with a good pinch of salt. Set aside until ready to plate.
3. For the beer batter, in a mixing bowl place the plain flour, gradually whisk in the ale until it makes a smooth batter then finish with a pinch of salt.
4. For the fish, in a baking dish place the plain flour and coat the fish so all of it is covered in flour.
5. Then dip the fish into the beer batter and shake off the excess batter. Fry for 5-7mins until golden brown and crispy. Do in batches depending on the size of your fryer. TIP – You could keep your fish warm in a low oven whilst waiting for the rest to cook.
6. Season with sea salt and serve straight away with a good serving of tartare sauce.
